Happy balls blast draw for lovers

Photo by Le Image Photography Looking for bridal shower game ideas? We have tons! From the tried and true traditional games of old to creative new takes that are sure to become fan favorites, we've rounded up a lot of fun for everyone, from your besties to your family members. Although betting on your bridal shower is not absolutely necessary, they are a tradition for a reason- they help your closest friends get to know each other, celebrate the bride and groom, and ensure that the party is a fun time for guests of all ages. We guarantee that these games will be approved by each generation present. Check out our list of 30 bridal shower game ideas that are sure to provide quirky diversions that participants can get excited about. 01 of 30 Photo by El Marco Rojo; Event Planning of Tres Eventos Hand out He Said, She Said briefly and has guests take turns guessing fun facts about the couple who said I love you first, who is more forgetful and who is the better dancer. You can make your own maps or you can find some beautiful options on Etsy. 02 of 30 Photo by Leo Patrone; Event Planning of Ashley Smith Events Find the Guest is a game idea that also acts as an awesome icebreaker to get your guests interacting. Each participant receives a checklist of characteristics- which have been married 10 years or longer, speak a foreign language, are wearing blue shoes, etc.- and must circulate the room to find a guest who matches each one. Everyone will have a ball chatting up in the room and find out more about your nearest and dearest! 03 of 30 Photo by Amy Anaiz Hang up about 10 numbered photos of the bride and her fiancé on various trips or at different locations. Guests can write down where they think each photo was taken, and the person with the most correct guesses wins a small prize. 04 of 30 Photo by Chi-Chi Ari Photography Play a music matching game that draws wedding songs from the couple's extended families. At the shower, show wedding photos from to-be-weds parents, grandparents, aunts, cousins and siblings. So have guests try to match the image of each couple with their first-dance song. Play a slideshow with the right songs (abbreviated, for time) and assign the guest with the most matches a musical-themed gift of their choice. 05 of 30 Photo by Leo Patrone; Event Planning of Ashley Smith Events An interactive scavenger hunt will get guests up and on their feet while knowing each other better in a relaxed but competitive setting. It's a particularly good idea if you're hosting a co-ed shower. If the event is in the couple's hometown or a suitable place, tracks like This Is Where the Couple Had Their First Date or It's Where the Couple Shared Their First Kisses is usually a fun place to start. 06 of 30 The bride answers questions about her relationship (Who paid on the first date?), to which her partner has responded to a pre-recorded video. After the bride reacts, someone plays the clip her partner's response to see if they match. Nosy guests and overshers will love this one, but remember, there's such a thing as too much information- so keep it (relatively) clean. 07 of 30 Photo by El Marco Rojo; Event Planning of Tres Eventos Guests divide into teams of three or four. A member of each team is the model. The others construct a wedding dress using toilet paper. The models strut, The bride chooses her favorite look. Pro tip: Use triple-lags. 08 of 30 Create a full bar, brand all ingredients with cards, and have teams compete to brew the best wedding cocktail. The bride can then choose her favorite drink and the team whose sheep bragging rights at the bar. 09 of 30 Print traditional vows and leave blank spaces for nouns, verbs, and adjectives. A bridesmaid asks each guest for a word. At the end of the party, the bride reads her wedding vows. For an added bonus, you can ask her SO to arrive at the end of the party and hold a mock ceremony with the funniest promises. 10 of 30 Make color prints of celebrity pairs and leave one at each location setting. Ask guests to identify both people in the photo. Don't make it too easy - the less obvious the better. Think Olivia Wilde and Jason Sudeikis, Chris Pratt and Anna Faris, and Nick Offerman and Megan Mullally. 11 of 30 Photo by Leo Patrone; Event Planning of the Ashley Smith Events List off distorted words associated with the couple, the bride, and the wedding. Whichever guest can unravel the words, the fastest wins. 12 of 30 Write names of wedding movies on the cards and divide the party into two teams. Players play titles out to their own team members, who must guess the answer in three minutes or less. To really make this work, go heavy on cocktails. Here are some movies to get you started: 27 Dresses, Mamma Mia!, My Big Fat Greek Wedding, Wedding Crashers, and The Wedding Singer. 13 of 30 Photo by Atmosphere Fotografia There are so many wedding traditions that we just do without really knowing why. This is one of the unique bridal shower games that is fun and teaches you a thing or two. Make a list of wedding traditions, like having a designated ring finger or bouquet toss, then have players choose an answer from a corresponding answer bank and see who can guess most correctly. 14 of 30 Photos by Chi-Chi Ari Photography Make a list of common items women can carry in their favorite bags, as well as less common-and racier!-things one can stash. Give a prize to the one who has the most things in her purse, and reward her with something else she can hold in it, for example. Include items like: a hair tie, a pen, red lipstick, or a fast-food receipt. 15 of 30 This is one of the fun bridal shower games that you will play all party long. Each guest is given a plastic ring to wear at the start of the shower. When a guest says bride or wedding, another guest is allowed to steal that person's ring. Whoever ends the bridal shower with the most rings wins. 16 of 30 Photo by Henry + Mac; Event Planning at unique weddings by Alexis Collect interesting or ridiculous information about the couple, and then ask guests to guess the answers to your questions. Consider writing a multiple-choice answer quiz you can rate as guests eating cake, or conducting a Jeopardy!-inspired live contest in which guests are vying to be the first to shout the right answer. Questions can range from easy for fewer points to hard for more points. Include questions like: Where did the couple meet? or Who said 'I love you' first? 17 of 30 Photo by Whitney Neal Studios; Event Planning of Laurel and Rose Collect the names of your favorite celebrity wives, then write each name on a single card. Ask each guest to tape a card to their foreheads - no one's looking!- and then have the other guests describe the person on the map until everyone guesses their celeb status. Who doesn't want to be Beyoncé one day? 18 of 30 There are a wealth of treasured memories in a room of BFFs. Put the memories in a basket and have the bride read them aloud. Then guests can guess who each memory belongs to. 19 of 30 Photo by Holly; Event Planning of Lake Como Wedding Planner Each guest writes the name of her dream celebrity date on a map. Everyone is trying to match the date with the guest. For a more advanced game, guests have to fill the other side of the map with their celeb date from hell; you have to guess not only who wrote it, but also which page it is. 20 of 30 Photo by Alex Tome Photography Compile a list of difficult questions about the bride's other half. Make guests guess how many questions the future Lady will be able to answer correctly. Whoever guesses the most questions right wins. 21 of 30 Photo by Red Apple Tree Photography This is one of the fun and useful bridal shower game ideas. Have pretty cardboard and glitter pens ready to go. Pass them out and get everyone to write down their favorite date night suggestions for the happy couple. When everyone reads their suggestions aloud, deposit them in a cute box that the bride can take home and use for future Friday nights. 22 of 30 This is exactly what you think it is: a fun twist on the pin tail of the donkey. Put a picture of the groom up on a wall, blindfold each guest and give them a ride to pin a moustache on the groom. 23 of 30 Grab a blank sheet of paper and ask a guest to write a single line of a romantic poem dedicated to the couple. Then fold the paper over, hide the guest's sentence, and give the paper to another guest with the same instructions. Make your way through all the guests; then, in your best dramatic stage voice, read the (incoherent) poem the bride's guests have dedicated to her great love. 24 of 30 To round off our list of unique bridal shower games, we had to include a game tying cherry stems in knots. Give each guest a small bowl of cherries see who can tie the most knots cherry stems for two minutes. For a little extra fun, enjoy cherries in vanilla vodka overnight. 25 of 30 For this game, guests will whip their phones into a cellular scavenger hunt. The ladies will search their phones and get points for each item they can find. For example, assign one to five points for things like a selfie, a photo with the bride-to-be, the wedding date stored in your calendar, etc. 26 of 30 Photo by Margherita Calati Place a bunch of toy rings inside buckets or bowls of ice water. Guests must throw their feet into the icy water and pull out the rings with their toes. Whoever can get the most rings out in two minutes wins. 27 of 30 Photo by El Marco Rojo; Event Planning of Tres Eventos Think musical chairs, but with a bouquet. Have guests sit in a circle and give it around. When the music stops, the one who has the bouquet is eliminated. The last woman standing is winning. 28 of 30 Photo by Whitney Neal Studios; Event Planning of Laurel and Rose Divide the guests in the team of two and settle into a rousing round of Pictionary. Remember that classic? Each team writes words down on notes and the other team has to draw what the word is and get their teammates to guess it. In this edition, of course, all the words must be wedding-related. 29 of 30 Photo by Jami Laree Jeskey Playing Phone is always fun and it is made even more fun when you start calls with a toast to the bride. Have each guest whisper the well wishes to the bride, then sit back and listen to the funniest toast ever when the message reaches the last guest. 30 of 30 Photo by Stephania Campos Has someone collect information from the bride about facts about her relationship or partner that relates to figures. For example, how many wedding venues they looked at, how many children they want or how many years ago they met. Then print the questions as facts with arbitrary numbers and make guests guess whether the numbers are too high, too low or accurate. Exactly.
